

Do you want sex with that?

● Claire Halliday

■ A terrific Melbourne journo is Claire Halliday. You will have all seen her byline in many newspapers particularly The Age. Claire is multi skilled, Journo, mother of four and author, her new book is a ripper! Her book, Do You Want Sex With That? is one woman's journey through childhood, adulthood and motherhood in Australia.

Combining memoir and reportage, Claire Halliday shares her own intimate experiences with – and – attitudes towards – sex, including her discoveries in the name of research; cruising Sexpo, attending Sex Addicts Anonymous, interviewing porn-stars on set (but off-camera), joining a suburban swingers' party, and getting in the mood at Hillsong (that was my favourite part of the book!)

Sex has always excited and disgusted, but now it does both things simultaneously, all the time.

In her new book Halliday explores how sex pervades our everyday life; from marriage to advertising, to pornography in art and popular culture, as well as teens and technology.

Written with unsparing candour Do You Want Sex With That? is an honest, compelling account of one woman's discovery as she tests these issues against her own life and feelings rather than abstract ideals.

The result is inquiring, challenging and fascinating reading.

It's a great book for book club! I loved, anything that challenges you and allows you to find out more about yourself I love.

10 out of 10 for this book Claire. It's a great read.
